

TELEHEALTH

The Remote Healthcare

WHAT IS TELEHEALTH?

“Telehealth” or “Telemedicine” refers to the use of healthcare technology to remotely connect and consult with patients. This technology allows patients to have access to medical records and advice from healthcare providers without the need for in-person visits to clinics or hospitals.

With devices like smartphones, laptops, tablets, and PCs along with an internet connection, patients can connect to online chat or video calls with healthcare professionals for consultation and medical assistance.
